Organised by the Network of Biblical Storytellers, Australia

The core activity of the Network of Biblical Storytellers is telling the sacred stories of the biblical tradition in post-literate electronic culture. This core activity is rooted in a communal process of internalisation through scholarly inquiry and prayer. We encourage varieties of expression and presentation of the sacred stories in oral, written and electronic communication systems.

10th National Biblical Storytelling Gathering

Stories, Stories, Everywhere...

Nunyara Conference Centre, Belair, Adelaide

Speaker: Steve Taylor

Network of Biblical Storytellers Aus/NZ

10th - 26th September
2010

The weekend will include

Workshops – for beginners and experienced storytellers covering many aspects of biblical storytelling

Worship – Ecumenical story shaped worship

Featured storytellers – Experienced network members will tell throughout the weekend

Epic Telling – An opportunity to learn a small portion of a bigger story (The Gospel of Matthew) and present it to an audience. If you need more information or help preparing just contact one of us.

Lighting the Fire – Informal evening storytelling. All types of stories, told by anyone who wishes.

Resources and networking – meet with others to share ideas, visit the bookstall and resource area.

Who Could Attend?

Lay or ordained people, Christian educators, in schools and churches from all denominations/traditions, people interested in story whether experienced or not.

Accommodation

Nunyara conference centre is in the beautiful Adelaide Hills. Single and shared rooms with ensuite shower are available. Accommodation and all meals are included in the fee. Keynote speaker:

Steve Taylor is a minister with the Baptist Church in New Zealand, currently serving in the Uniting Church as Director of Missiology at Uniting College for Leadership & Theology, Adelaide.

For Steve, the theme of this weekend captures the way that we are all storied people in our lives, in our experiences of God and in the Bible as the story of others' experiences.

In the Keynote addresses, Steve will tell stories from Mark that he has reimagined for today, and reflect on the process of understanding, interpreting, and telling the gospel stories in a current context.

In Steve's workshop participants will explore the craft of storytelling as it applies to telling our own story - how do we identify the beginning, middle and end of the story we wish to tell of our experiences or our faith, so as to communicate the meaning we have discovered?

Through Steve's insights on Mark coupled with our epic telling of Matthew, our engagement with the gospel stories will be enlivened, and our telling of them enriched.
